Handicapped is one of the nasty words in our language. It carries too much negative connotation and automatically suggests that the person involved is not up to a level of performance equal to the "normal" for that particular activity.

As a public school teacher who works with handicapped and retarded children. I long ago decided that this was a very unfair evaluation. People with all sorts of disabilities and supposed problems have proven to be excellent workers and participants in all sorts of activities. Participation in the world of sports is no exception. My hat is always off to the person who works hard to overcome some form of personal inconvenience and excel at work or play.

Lou Church is just that sort of person. I have never heard him grumble or complain at a match. He has always been most pleasant and is always willing to give a hand to anyone who needs it. Whether winning or just shooting he is always an easy person to be around. That, after all, is the name of the game. If we cannot enjoy it why do it in the first place?

It is our purpose, in presenting Lou on the cover, to encourage those who might feel that they cannot participate, due to some physical situation, to come on out and give the game a try. There are many who will willingly give a hand to get the new shooter started. Take the case of Lou, or Dick LeFebvre who shoots from a wheelchair, or Sam Staton who is legally blind yet can shoot with optical assistance, and you have enough evidence that benchrest is for anyone who is interested.

Lou can best sum up the situation with this quote. "I have received help from everyone I meet. They are a swell bunch of people and I really enjoy benchrest very much. I only wish that I had started years earlier." We wish that you had too Lou. It is good to have you with us.

During the course of any year we have the opportunity to highlight people, places or things on the cover. This month I have the honor of presenting to you a rather unique and pleasant person who wholeheartedly enjoys benchrest shooting. This month I give you Mr. Lou Church from Johnsonville, NY.

I don't remember when I first met Lou but I think that it was in 1977. At that time Lou had been shooting for about 2 years with the Dunham's Bay gang and had pretty well mastered the sport.

Lou gives much credit to Charles Fountaine and Norm Dixon for his early training and encouragement. Without their valued assistance Lou feels that he might have given it up long ago. Many other shooters feel that this club has been of service to them as well. Perhaps a story on that club will be in order at some later date.

The year of 1978 found Lou winning his first winter shoot at Dunham's Bay. The habit carried over to the Stittsville Open where he was the Heavy Varmint winner. Later that year he won the Pennsylvania State Championship at Fassett, PA. At the IBS International Championship he was a member of the winning 4 man team event. When he was not winning he was still very near the top of each event that he entered. Not a bad year for a guy who seriously thought about giving it up.

The unfolding of the winning ways of Lou Church is a story that parallels the beginning and success of many a shooter who enters the sport of benchrest. Many of us are caught in the struggle to learn and advance our skills to a point of contentment. It all takes time and a lot of effort. In Lou's case it took a bit more effort for Lou has been learning with one slight inconvenience. Lou does all of his activities with only one arm.

Initially one might suspect that benchrest would be impossible for a person with one arm. Not so! Lou Church is living proof that it can be done. From the time that he drives to the range and sets up camp till the final goodbye he performs on a par with the very best, and sometimes a good deal better than the best can muster on that occasion.

To call Lou, or any other person with a similar situation, handicapped has always appeared to me to be most unkind. I prefer to consider the situation as more of an inconvenience than a handicap.

"The Editor's Hour"

This month finds a lot of topics on my list of things to present. We are now into the shooting season. The first matches have been won and Super Shoot is over. The gas shortage (???) is causing some worry and showing its true colors all at the same time. Remember 1974? What will tomorrow bring?

By now many of you have noted the increase in the cost of the subscription to the magazine. Unfortunately inflation is not something that we are immune to. We held off on the rate increase to $9.00 as long as possible. It simply had to be done if we are to survive on the prices of today.

All of us would like to see more pages, more coverage and all of the additional nice things that make good reading for the subscribers. With the rate increase I feel that we can now do some of the things that we all want. It will take some time but we have good plans for you. We will put them into motion as soon as possible.

Please make note that the Trading Post section has a price increase to 15 cents a word. That still is a bargain as the Trading Post sells more items for shooters than anything I know of. An example:

Last year a reader sent me a check to cover an ad for 2 months. I sent him a one month refund with a note stating that if the item did not sell in the first month I would run the ad for the second month for free. The free ad never ran as the item lasted less than a week after the magazine hit the readers. In fact, he could have sold several dozen of the things. The Trading Post is extremely effective as a way to move shooting related material.

Each shooter has a collection of stuff which is loosely termed as "Junk", meaning it has no present value to the owner. It just gathers dust in a corner or on a shelf. Why not run an ad and place the item into the hands of someone who can use it. Remember that; "One man's junk is another man's collector's item!" Make up your ad and send a check along to cover it. We will do the rest for you. Convert deadwood into living money to buy that new item you have been longing to get your hands on.

Precision Shooting Magazine is once again offering a block of stock for sale to the readers. It is an opportunity for you to take an active part in the operation of the magazine.

We are offering 200 shares for sale during the coming year. The revenue from this sale will be used for capital improvement of the magazine. The cost is $25.00 per share and you can buy as many shares as you desire.

It is an opportunity to help support and promote the shooting sports. We all participate and enjoy the good things of shooting. How many of us actually pitch in and give a hand with the daily functioning of our sport? Here is a good way to show your support and encouragement. Strike a blow at the anti forces by putting your money where your heart is; solidly behind the shooting sports, and benchrest in particular. See our promotional ad elsewhere in this issue for all the details.

This next item is of importance to all clubs that are sponsors of IBS registered matches. I expect to be quite busy this summer and may not be able to attend every match. As much as I would like to do that it is not possible so I will have to depend on others for some of the coverage of these events.

If each club will take care of getting pictures taken and a short article written I will cover expenses for film and paper. In that way we can guarantee that the winners receive the coverage that they deserve. The magazine looks much better with pictures included in each article.

The short article can include highlights and information on weather or unusual match conditions. We will take care of equipment and winners from the shoot reports. Your cooperation in this will be appreciated.

At this writing "Benchrest 79" is well along and we are pleasantly surprised. We have a large group of students signed up for the activity and it is anticipated that the class will be filled before the July 15 deadline. If you receive this issue before the 15th. and would still like to participate give me a call. There may still be a spot or two open.

The initial response was most surprising and gratifying to me. I had a feeling that this sort of activity was needed but I slightly underestimated the demand. We will run the school with between 25 and 30 shooters which is way above my predicted 18 to 20. It is anticipated that this school will become a regular thing if the initial success can be used as a guideline. To date I have enjoyed putting it together for you. I look for the school session to be fast and interesting for all of us. We can all learn together.

Ann Brummell

Punchbowl. N.S.W.
Australia 2196

Following Nev Madden's retirement as S.S.A.A. National Benchrest Chairman the delegates have elected a new Chairman and a new Australian representative to the International Benchrest Committee. Yours truly is the new Chair and the international post has gone to Ron Marsden.

The National Benchrest Sub-Committee will meet in Adelaide during the Southern Varmint titles. At this point in time the meeting is shaping up as a comprehensive one with many, and varied, Agenda items. Our Benchrest meetings have an open forum air with shooters who will be directly effected by the decisions being welcome to participate and give their views. However, motions and voting are confined to delegates.

At this point in time several targets from the 1979 Nationals are in the hands of National Scorer Max Coady as potential records. I believe one set of targets could constitute a new National Heavy Varmint 200 yard Aggregate record around .31 and the others are from the .22 lr Rimfire. The Nationals, I believe, were a success but as anticipated attendance was low when compared to previous years. The bottom line of the exercise was, and still is, time and money. In the majority of cases, the Southern Varmint titles got the nod over the Nationals.

The administration of Para, in particular the benchrest section, is working very hard and leaving no stone unturned to insure the success of the international shoot in September/October. Even at this "early" stage our Federal Government is taking a keen interest in the event. This is the first benchrest competition with more than one overseas entrant that has been held in Australia since the present Government introduced its policy with the emphasis on SPORT.

The current Federal Government is on face value exhibiting a more open minded view on sport although subsidies are low ($1 million) per annum when compared with other countries. This small kitty has to be split between all sports. In the shooting arena the financial priority has been given, in the main, to Olympic oriented disciplines while not I.S.U. types such as benchrest "dipped out". However, with the new theme being SPORT, the system could herald avenues whereby non I.S.U. shooting disciplines of international flavour can submit for overseas travel subsidies. If policies keep moving the way they are at present the time could be right for our group shooters to obtain small subsidies toward their travel expenditure to compete in the U.S. of A. and Canada in lieu of the situation in previous years of picking up all your own tab or staying at home. The current trend of government policy is aimed towards sport and this cannot be bad as sport has far reaching benefits from preventative medicine to active mind and body as well as providing an interest of involvement. Maybe, just maybe, sport could be the medium for reducing drug problems and juvenile crime which plague the young people of the world as many of these activities stem from inactivity and boredom.

Until next time.

Benchrest Feature

by Lt. Col. Rick Hornbeck
R.D. 2, Box 220
Pine Bush, New York 12566

Not long ago a small package arrived in the mail. It was from John J. Trela, (636 Grier Ave., Elizabeth, NJ 07202). John is one of those competitors who is always showing up at a match with something new and useful. He's not a bad competitor either, and he appears to always depart a match with awards tucked under his arm.

The package contained a sample of a crown saver that John has been using over the past year; modifying his design along the way. It is made of aluminum with steel inserts for different calibers. My sample came with inserts for .22, 6mm and 30 cal. This arrived shortly after a discussion that took place at the annual meeting. It involved several gunsmiths and a barrel maker. The discussion was centered around the importance of the crown of the rifle barrel relative to performance. It was brought out by several of these learned guys that often a recrowning of a barrel that has lost some of its capability will restore it to top performance. When these gents transmit, it's a good idea to keep your receiver open. Those of you who do not attend these meetings are missing out on not only IBS business but a vast amount of information and valid experience.

We keep our barrels clean (or you better, bub!) and, as a result, the crown sees the passage of many cleaning brushes and patched jags. The crown saver is designed to keep the wear off the crown as the brushes and jags are held in alignment by the steel insert. The first one of these rigs that I ever saw was made up and used by past president Carl Lynn. I don't remember if Carl's was adjustable for different diameter barrels or not (Ed. No!) John's is adjustable. My example will take care of all ten and a half pound and thirteen and a half pound rifles. John offers the service of opening the tool to accept barrels on the heavy benchrest rifle.

In use the aluminum collar is fastened to the barrel and held in place by a brass set screw which has a good sized knob. The knob and its set screw should always be oriented in the same direction relative to the barrel and rifle. The three screws on the forward end of the collar are loosened, a cleaning brush is pushed through the barrel and positioned to just protrude out the muzzle. The steel insert of the proper caliber is centered by the cleaning brush and the three screws are tightened. A very simple procedure.

There are some additional items that John sends along with the assembly. First is a metal bracket that can be fastened to the front cap by the lower screw. A plastic cup can be taped to this to catch patches. Also included is a flexible plastic sheet that can be fastened to the collar to prevent bore cleaner from splattering onto the scope lens.

The price for the crown saver, with three inserts for three calibers, is $25.00 plus $3.00 for postage and insurance. John also will make up a bore saver. The above kit plus a bore saver is $35.00. If you are interested, drop a line to John along with a S.A.S.E.

I have had a sample of a neck sizing die and bullet seater by Central Products for Shooters (435 Route 18, East Brunswick, NJ 08816) to work with for the last several months. These dies are of the very best quality fit and finish.

Benchrest Headlines — 25 Years Ago

by A. H. Angerman

- Bob Hart's smallbore bench rest match at Nesopeck, Pa. drew sixteen shooters. Winners were McElrath, Frohm, Zeiser, Church. Stinehour, Snyder, Wally Hart, Samsel and Woolever. Sounds like no one went home empty handed.
- Winners at Augusta, Ohio on April 25, 1954 were LaChat, Brown, Hayman, Kusky, Kail, Gottschall, Rinehart and Creighton. LaChat, Kusky and Creighton are still very active bench rest shooters.
- Hart barrels were beginning to show up on the line, and their superiority was making shooters take notice of them.
- The Staunton, Va. club entertained nineteen shooters. Their early spring shoot was always a good opener, and meals at the "Buckhorn" were southern home cooking at its best. Big guns were Bob Hart, Edith Wenkenbach Culver and Gene Beecher.
- The world record for ten shots at 200 yards was broken twice within an hour at the DuBois, Pa. shoot May 29 and 30, 1954. Mike Walker fired a .570" group that officially edged out Frank Cooper's record. Then Sam Clark from Waterville, Maine stepped up to the bench and punched out a .528" ten shot group to beat Mike. The big winners at this shoot were the "who's who of bench rest", Chet Benjamin, Ed McNally, Al Creighton, Clair Taylor, Don Robbins, Mike and Olive Walker, Sam Clark, Paul Gottschall, The Harts, Bill Cotter, and Gene Hudgins. Other notables were Crawford Hollidge, Al Prosper, John Hutchinson, Jack Snyder, Homer Culver, John Collins, W.M. Brown, Irv Potter and Sam Rothrock. I had the good fortune to shoot alongside all of these pioneers, but alas they beat me every time!

- Gene Beecher created a lightweight reloading tool that performed every necessary operation. It was a truly imaginative piece of art. Unfortunately Gene never made them for sale. Incidentally Gene was the first shooter I ever knew who tapered the inside of his flash holes.

- Quickie headlines:
 - Ralph Brown proclaimed winner at Augusta, Ohio May 15-16.
 - Ted Holmes got red hot at Windsor, Ill.
 - Bob Smith won the Texas State Championships, May 29-30.
 - The Wilsons of Cashmere, Wash., (Sam, James, Mary and John) put on a magnificent performance at a Seattle shoot on June 19, 1954.
 - The 1954 edition of the "Ultimate in Rifle Precision" was on its eve of publication, a 25 chapter gem on bench rest shooting.

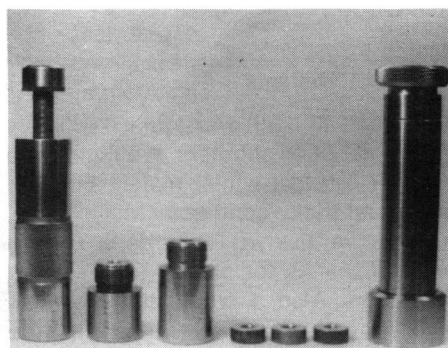

Group Tightner Bullets®

The finish inside the die is like a mirror. If you wish to change cartridges, additional sizing chambers and neck sizing rings can be obtained from CPS at a small additional charge. Therefore, the same die can be used for a number of rifles.

The seating die is made along the lines of other seating dies, but it is somewhat longer than most with a lapped and well fitted seating stem. Inside finish, again, is like a mirror.

The dies are supplied in a fitted plastic case that will hold a die set and several additional sizing rings and chambers. The sizing die for one caliber is $35.00. Additional sizing chambers and sizing rings are $15.00. The bullet seater is $25.00. CPS requires 6 fired cases to properly fit dies for your rifle. For further information write CPS.

We had 43 adult and 3 junior shooters for a total of 46 shooters. We had a nice day for our last winter match, but with the usual tricky conditions.

We owe Evelyn Richards a special note of thanks for preparing our buffet luncheon. Also, I would like to thank everyone else who worked at the matches, plus the shooters who made the season a success.

KLEINENDORST FIRING PIN REMOVAL TOOL

For Remington 700 series rifles.

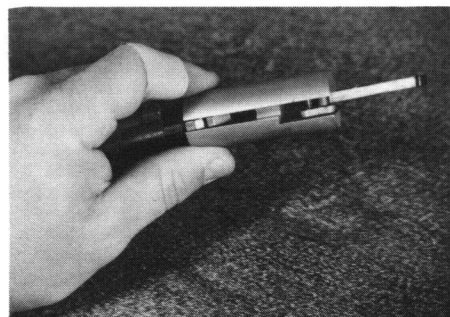

Have you ever had to fool around with a penny while trying to relieve the spring tension on a Remington bolt to take the bolt apart? First there is no sharp edge to press the cocking piece on. Then the corner of the bench tears off and you skin up your hand. Finally you get the slot visible and you pinch your finger in the process. It is not much fun.

Ken Kleinendorst is marketing the solution for your problems. While working with John Havriluk they devised the tool you see here as a convenience for taking the Remington bolt apart. It is a dream to work with.

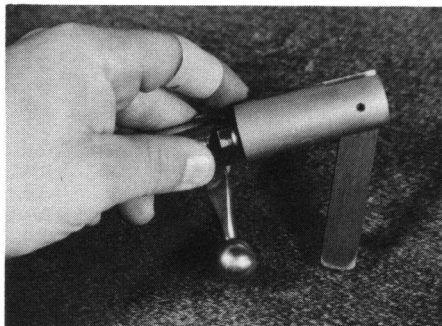

To use it simply take the tool and open the little hook as shown in figure one.

Insert the bolt so that the head of the cocking piece is in the opening of the tool. Figure 2.

Slip the hook down so that it is in the notch on the bottom of the firing pin assembly (Figure 3) and

Now unscrew the firing pin assembly and you have it. Figure 5. Lower the cam and take the bolt apart. Assemble in reverse order.

Available from Ken Kleinendorst at 48 Taylortown Rd., Montville, NJ, 07045. This tool sells for $15.00 plus postage. If you do much work with the Remington bolt it is worth the price in time saved on just a few jobs. It will fit the 722-700-40X series but will not work on the 600 bolts. A good buy if you feel the need for such a convenience.

February 18 Report

At 8:30 a.m. the thermometer was holding at minus 25 degrees F., and you knew it was one of those days when nothing was going to go right. Fran Williams kept telling Norm Dixon, "Go ahead, yell at me — it'll make you feel better," right after the paper for the moving backer tore. Maybe it was Lee and Joe having trouble (TROUBLE???) with keyholes, or Ira trying to shoot down the light pole in front of his bench and only getting two shots on paper. If you missed this circus you haven't lived.

At least Carter LaFoy now knows that bigger isn't necessarily better after firing the 350 Mag. in Hunter class. He had to know. That's what it's all about. He said next time — 357 Herrett. Be here April 1st, no fooling, and see what in H--- happens next.

We'll be shooting, regardless of the weather, so if you are hardy enough to make the trip we'll be waiting for you.

UNREGISTERED SHOOT REPORT

DUNHAM'S BAY

March 4, 1979

Congratulations are surely in order for Dick LeFebvre for some fine shooting in the wind today! This seemed to be the day for youngsters as Brian, Bruce and Scott really laid it on. Fred Euber got the hang of it at the end or else Gordy "reasoned" with him a bit. Fine shooting by all.

For those who were not here today we had a long and worthwhile discussion after the match. We talked over some ideas about increasing attendance at the rest of our matches. We will now be firing for one good trophy or award at each match — the winner will have some choice about what the prize will be. Rather than several smaller trophies, we will offer merchandise awards based on the number in attendance. As an example, if we have twenty shooters on March 18th, we will have a lottery type drawing of 500 Hollister bullets. If we have thirty shooters, we will draw for another 500 Hollister bullets. If by chance we get forty Walt will dance a fandango with Barb Keller and then draw another couple of prizes. These can be won by anyone who fires for record that day regardless of his place of finish from first to last.

We are making plans for a series of awards to new shooters as well and will be telling you more about that at the next match. We are always looking for new shooters and we hope to give them a little added incentive to try their hand at our game. Watch your future copies of our newsletter to see how well it goes, or better yet, come see for yourself.

It was a bright sunny day but with the wind blowing so hard it was like zero. The crowd was very encouraging. We hope to have more now that the weather has started to warm up.

Prizes of 500 Hollister bullets were won by Joe Vinci and Phyllis Smotherman. It helps to make up for the gun problems Phyllis had with a broken extractor on her second record target. She and Ron fired the rest of the day with a cleaning rod to knock out empties. They did well considering! This was her first try at Hunter Rifle and the last target tells something.

New Safe-T-Plug Renders Firearms Inoperable

Lee Custom Engineering, Inc. has introduced a simple, easy-to-use and economical device that effectively prevents the loading or firing of a handgun or rifle.

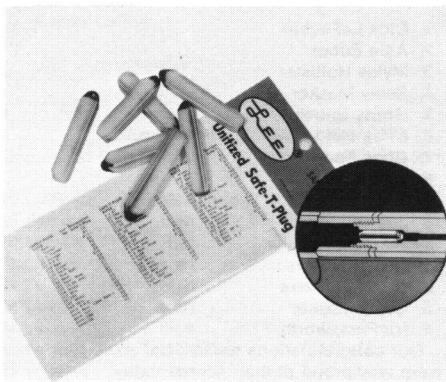

The Unitized Safe-T-Plug is a soft plastic form which is inserted into the breech of a rifle or automatic, and individual chambers of a revolver. Although it can be put into place with hand pressure, a cleaning rod must be used to remove it.

In addition to being an effective safety device, the Unitized Safe-T-Plug is an excellent 'snap cap'. The soft plastic protects a firing pin from damage during dry-fire practice sessions.

Sportsmen who enjoy having their firearms on display will appreciate the Safe-T-Plug's being concealed when in place.

The Safe-T-Plug is available for 87 rifle chamberings, and for 29 handguns, $.98.

For more information, please contact: Gordon Schaenzer, President; Lee Custom Engineering, Inc.; 46 East Jackson Street; Hartford, Wisconsin 53027.

Successful Improbables At One Time Or Another

In almost every shooter's memory are shots which connected against all reasonable odds. (Those made by subscribers of this magazine were, of course, the result of superb shooting with good equipment and control of the laws of probability. Others made theirs through various combinations and quanta of tolerably good shooting, intuitive guesses, dumb luck, compensating errors and the lord knows what else.)

One such shot which was witnessed by this writer in the early 30's was taken in a moderate crosswind at an erect woodchuck. The rifle was a Sharps-Borchardt barreled by Zischang for the 25-35 in 14 inch twist. The ammunition was the old 100 grain U.S. Cartridge Company plain base soft point bullet at about 2,450 fps. It was an accurate combination at 150 yards when conditions were good. With a coefficient of form much like that of a boxcar it was definitely not up to the chore about to be revealed.

The shooter stated "I'm going to hold 3 woodchucks over top of him and 2 into the wind. The range was later determined to be 385 yards. It was sending a boy to do the work of a man.

At the shot the woodchuck fell dead, shot dead center through the neck. It really happened. Now let us hear about some other fantastic shooting events made by fantastic shooters.
